Do You Think For Yourself?

Or do you open your mouth like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you?

When an intelligent thinking woman is in need of relief from weakness, nervousness, pain and suffering, then it means much to her that there is one tried and true home medicine of known composition, sold by druggists for the cure of women's ills.

The makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of weak, nervous, run-down, over-worked, debilitated, pain-racked women, knowing this medicine to be made up of ingredients, every one of which has the strongest possible endorsement of the leading and standard authorities of the several schools of practice, are perfectly willing, and in fact, are only too glad to print, as they do, the formula, or list of ingredients, of which it is composed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper.

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it contains no alcohol, narcotics, harmful or habit-forming drugs, and no agent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice. These authorities recommend the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of exactly the same ailments for which this world-famed medicine is advised.

No other medicine for women's ills has any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has received, in the unqualified recommendation of each of its several ingredients by scores of leading medical men of all the schools of practice. Is such an endorsement not worthy of your consideration?

A booklet of ingredients, with numerous authoritative professional endorsements by the leading medical authorities of this country, will be mailed free to any one sending name and address with request for same. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

MANIAC MURDERER.

A black-bearded maniac, in a black slouch hat, drew an automatic pistol yesterday afternoon and fired five shots into a crowd of Harlem, N. Y., school boys who had been taunting him. Robert Lomas, 6 years old, was shot through the heart and died instantly. Arthur Shibley, also 6 years old, was shot through the left lung, and was taken to a hospital critically wounded.
The man whom none of the frightened youngsters can describe accurately, shambled off into the bushes and rocks surrounding the boy's playground, and was soon lost to sight. One hundred and fifty policemen and a posse of citizens are hunting for him.

Half a hundred children just freed from school were coasting in the woods, while a group of grown ups stood watching the sport. Among them were the man with the black beard. He drew away from the crowd and edged up the side of the hill. Just then down came little Arthur Shibley on his sled, whooping a caution to people on foot. His sled halted on a bare spot, and as he stood up the madman whipped out his pistol and fired.
The boy shrieked and fell. In the subsequent excitement everybody apparently thought of the boy and nobody of the man, for he ran off northward unpursued. It was some moments before a policeman arrived, and a small boy tugged him by the skirts of his coat.
"He's up there," gasped the boy, "and he's not another boy."

On the edge of the woods they found young Lomas dead.

The agreement of a dozen scattered descriptions convinces the police that they have to do with the same unknown homicidal maniac who four nights ago shot down John Fredericks in the same neighborhood.
Fredericks, who is a printer, was returning late at night from a call on his sweetheart when he was shot four times without provocation by a man with a black beard and a black slouch hat, who in height and eccentric manner corresponds to accounts of the man sought for last night.

PAULHAN BREAKS RECORD.

In side sweeping spirals Louis Paulhan drove his biplane to an altitude of nearly one mile yesterday at Los Angeles, Cal., breaking all official records for high flight.
The aeroid on his Farman biplane showed that he had reached a height of 4,600 feet, thereby surpassing Hubert La Ham's recent record by 1,000 feet. It was 50 minutes and 45 seconds from the time he left the ground until he returned from his voyage into the clouds.

On its way upward the biplane circled about three balloons for a moment and then passed them. For a few moments more it was silhouetted against the dark side of the distant mountains. Then it crept upward, circled high above the mountain peaks, grew smaller and smaller as it ascended, until at last it was a scarcely distinguishable speck wheeling steadily in the blue sky.

FLOOD'S LIKELY.

With the temperature mounting and a thaw at hand the harbor situation at Pittsburg, Pa., yesterday resolved itself into Pittsburg's yearly problem: "How to save itself from a flood." Thousands of tons of ice forced in the Monongahela Allegheny and Ohio rivers at Pittsburg presents a menace which the United States government is investigating with a view to blasting the ice dams in an effort to save valuable shipping and harbor property.

Rain yesterday in Missouri and northern points caused the Mississippi river to assume a threatening aspect. The river has risen seven-tenths feet in 24 hours. It is gorged with ice all the way from St. Louis to Chester, Ill. The Missouri river is gorged at Hermann, Mo., and many smaller gorges are reported north of St. Louis.
An ice gorge of unusual proportions extends in the Potomac river. At points the gorge rises 10 feet above the level of the river, and it is gorged to the bottom. When the gorge breaks it is feared much damage will result.

PERISHED IN SHIPWRECK.

The Southern Pacific steamer Carzina, which left Marshfield, Oregon, for San Francisco yesterday, lies a total wreck on the north spit of the Ocas Bay bar, and 29 lives are believed lost. K. B. Kentzall, first assistant engineer, was washed ashore alive.
The steamer left Marshfield in a gale. Tremendous seas were breaking over the bar as the Carzina attempted to pass into the ocean. Those on shore, who had gathered to watch the departure of the boat, were startled to see the Carzina sweep toward the north spit. The engines apparently were disabled. The heavy seas seemed almost to envelop the steamer, and she drifted rapidly on the spit, at a point about a mile above the jetty.
The disabled vessel pounded heavily while great waves swept over her. The crew crowded into the rigging and made frantic gesture for help, while hundreds

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"After my doctor had done all he said he could for me," writes Mrs. Wm. Hilliard, of Mountainburg, Ark., "I took Cardui, on the advice of a friend, and it helped me so much. Before taking Cardui, I had suffered from female troubles for five years, but since taking it, I am in good health. I think there is some of the best advice in your book that I ever saw." on shore, among them C. J. Mills, manager of the steamship company, whose son was on board the Carzina, were compelled to stand idly by and see man after man washed overboard.

So rough was the sea that all efforts of the life-saving crew to launch a boat were in vain, while attempts to shoot a life line across the vessel also failed.
As darkness fell a few of the crew were still clinging to the wreck, but it is not believed that any of these survived.
The Carzina carried a crew of 8 officers and 21 men.
